Environmental Policy

Solestar is a Performing Arts Company which provides workshops and classes for children and adults in and around North London. Our primary obligation is to the wellbeing of the communities we work with. Consequently we believe we have a responsibility to reduce the environmental impact of our activities as far as possible.

Our main environmental impacts arise from our use of energy and materials whilst running classes and performances in various venues. We are therefore committed to:-

- reducing our energy usage through the purchase of energy efficient equipment and changing behaviours
- minimising the amount of waste we generate
- increasing re-use and recycling
- reducing our paper consumption wherever possible
- limiting our business travel
- complying with all relevant environmental legislation
- engaging our students and audiences to take environmental action

This policy is supported by our Environmental Action Plan. This policy and action plan is reviewed and updated on an annual basis.

This environmental policy is available on request or from our website <http://www.solestar.co.uk/>. Information on our progress can be obtained by emailing Louise Blair - louise@solestar.co.uk
